These results are so far in advance of previous installations and leave so little room for improvement that it appears justifiable to say that obsolescence of Fig. 11--Cross-section--Station No. 2 Hydraulic Plant this plant could be brought about only by some scientific advance in the art of power production of a totally unexpected and revolutionary character. The recent investigation and report on Niagara conditions by Col. J. G. Warren and its analysis by other federal engineers has supplied a long felt want of authentic data, and has answered with peculiarly disinterested wisdom many of the hitherto perplexing questions in regard to comparison of plans for developments, and also as to the amounts of water necessary for maximum scenic grandeur and the amount that can be released for power purposes. This compilation of...
