Excerpt: . . . ederal level we have been working every day to find our vulnerabilities and to eliminate them. Today we are going to explore the unique security concerns facing our ports. I am pleased that we have many distinguished experts from the port community and government agencies to share their insights with us today. I have been working on port security for several months now, and last year I worked with the Navy and the Coast Guard to obtain additional ships, boats and people to patrol and protect Puget Sound. As part of last years defense supplemental appropriations bill, I added funds to locate a new marine safety and security team here in Puget Sound. I am pleased to report to you today that that unit will be commissioned this summer here. I also wrote to Admiral Fargo, Commander-in-Chief of the Pacific Fleet, and got him to agree to provide additional boats to protect our naval facilities. In addition, I have used my position as chair of this subcommittee to review our governments...
